GOOD PRACTICE GUIDANCE – MAY 2021

The British Dance Council continues to advise members to follow guidance issued by the Government on the safe return to studios and venues. It is local health authorities and local councils who must be consulted once the venues being used have been made Covid secure, if anyone is unsure of the guidance issued by the Government.

Information does vary for country-to-country and area-to-area. Please make sure you comply with your local authorities rulings and not that from the general public's social media posts.

If your business is not returning when Government guidelines allow, make sure you inform your local council. There was reported a spate of incidents regarding the business loan where businesses had not informed their council of their situation at the time.

The British Dance Council cannot give anyone authority to restart social dance activities. Guidance must be sourced from local health authorities.

As the lockdown eases, continue to be Covid aware.
Keep well, keep safe and keep dancing
